Leathers used for every h.u.n.t bag is fully REACH compliant

What is a REACH COMPLIANT Leather: Registration, Evaluation, Authorisation and Restriction of Chemicals (REACH) is a European Union regulation dating from 18 December 2006. REACH addresses the production and use of chemical substances, and their potential impacts on both human health and the environment.

The legislation was proposed under dual reasoning: protection of human health and protection of the environment.

Using potentially toxic substances in products other than those ingested by humans may seem to be safe, but there are several ways in which chemicals can enter the human body and the environment. Substances can leave particles during consumer use, for example into the air where they can be inhaled or ingested. Even where they might not do direct harm to humans, they can contaminate the air or water, and can enter the food chain through plants, fish or other animals. Many such chemicals are known to be carcinogenic, mutagenic or toxic to reproduction.

Continued use of many toxic chemicals is sometimes justified because at very low levels they are not a concern to health. However, many of these substances may bioaccumulate in the human body, thus reaching dangerous concentrations. They may also chemically react with one another, producing new substances with new risks. Therefore at h.u.n.t harmful chemicals like PCP, Azo Dyes and Chromium is avoided, to ensure healthy natural experience.

EMPOWERMENT, DEVELOPMENT

h.u.n.t has actively encouraged training and employing local women folk from nearby villages for the unit . Helping them to attain self-reliance and improve their standard of living.

PRODUCED IN THE MOST ENVIORNMENT FRIENDLY FACTORIES

The h.u.n.t factory is set up in a pollution free leather goods zone in the ILPA Leather Goods Park, Bantala, Kolkata – India. It is the single most largest leather producing zone in the world that encompasses tanneries to leather goods units and most advanced Effluent Treatment plant.

FAIR TRADE PRACTICES

At h.u.n.t we are transparent in our management and commercial relations. We do not maximize profits at expense of the marginal supplier. We follow strict principals in timely and fair payments to our associates and colleagues. There is no Child Labour. We ensure good working conditions without any discrimination to appointment of workers or suppliers.
